

While at Kweiyang on 24th January 1942 General Wu presented each of us with a small booklet, Lt Kennedy wrote in his book Hong Kong Full Circle; “A booklet of coloured linocuts which bore the personal chop or seal of General Wu. These little pictures showed figures of the Miao tribe, the Aborigines living in the more mountainous parts of Kweichow, and we recognised in them the peasants we had seen near the road the day before”
